This is the way to vote the Straight Democratic Ticket.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,
Of Nebraska.
For Vice-President,
ADLAI E. STEVENSON,
Of Illinois.
For Governor,
J. C. W. BECKHAM,
Of Nelson.
For Congress,
GEORGE G. GILBERT,
Of Shelby.

THE Lexington Herald advertises a thousand dollars to be bet on the election and invites any one who desires to take it to call at its office. From this we may presume that it is to be the stakeholder. This is the paper that for some time past has been professing political sanctification. It is democratic, it says, but so absolutely pure, it is impossible for the democratic party to do anything that meets its approval. It refuses to recognize Gov. Beckham's title to his office, although the Legislature and all the courts have adjudicated in his favor. It refuses to support him in his present race and at the same time admits that he was fairly nominated. It is too pure to support the nominee for Congress in its own district, although the courts have decided that he is the nominee, and his former opponent is cordially supporting him. It is too pure to support Mr. Gilbert in the 8th district, who is a christian gentleman and a man of ability, and who is opposed by a man whose only title to fame is that he was refused saloon license in Louisville and who doesn't know the difference between the previous question and the single rule of three. The Herald has been the especial champion of law and order. It has unmercifully lashed Fayette's sheriff for failing to make reports as required by law and its fight on the gamblers of Lexington has been terrific. It has in short been a voice crying in the wilderness calling on sinners to repent and now it suddenly changes its tone and encourages betting which is vigorously denounced by the law of the land.

Writing from New York to the Courier-Journal, its old reliable correspondent, O. O. Stealey, gives this review of the political situation: "There is no discouraging news anywhere for democrats. Gorman reiterates that Bryan will carry Maryland. Bryan's trip through West Virginia has taken that boss-ridden little Southern State out of the republican column. The news from Ohio is especially good, and Indiana still stands solid for Bryan. Illinois, like Ohio, is in the doubtful column. Kansas and Nebraska are all right and little Jersey is getting in line. Never mind the little States in the far West that Bryan carried before. They will come up smiling for democracy on election day."

If Beckham is elected and Jim Howard is hung for the murder of Mr. Goebel, the blood of this innocent man will be, to a certain extent at least, upon the hands of those republicans who fail to go to the polls and vote.—London Echo. The inference we draw is that if Yerkes is elected Howard will be pardoned. Are we not right?

KING LEOPOLD, of Belgium, was arrested in Paris for running his autocar at an excessive rate of speed. The king is to be congratulated on escaping so easily. Those of his rank are usually assassinated in Paris, even when they are moving slowly.

THE Osteopaths after a hard fight have downed the Allopaths in the appellate court, and will be permitted to practice in this State. One great advantage of Osteopathy over Allopathy is that while it may not always do good it never does harm.

HOBSON's friends have given him a loving cup. They should have given him a gag instead or some other contrivance to keep his mouth shut.

WARRIORS Bradley and Young have signed a peace protocol.

THE stealing of $700,000 by C. N. Alvord, Jr., from the First National Bank, New York, gives rise to some reflections. In the first place the directors of the institution, like nearly all directors, were surely derelict in their duties or this stealing could not have gone undetected so long. He seems to have been an unusually shrewd thief, though, for he baffled the bank examiners also and this is generally next to impossible. The great point in his favor was that he had the unbounded confidence of his employers and for that reason he was not looked after as carefully as he would have been otherwise. All persons in fiducial positions should be watched closely by those upon whom that duty devolves. It will do no harm to the honest man and may frequently detect the thief. Especial care should be taken to ascertain how they spend their leisure moments. If gambling is one of their diversions, the directors should relieve them of their positions as soon as it is discovered, for in nearly 12 cases out of a dozen, where gentlemen of the green cloth handle other people's money, somebody will suffer sooner or later. A little detective work could easily have discovered the fact that Alvord was a frequenter of the Saratoga race course and that he was living far beyond his means. Becky Sharp's case proved long ago that a person can't live honestly on nothing a year and it is also true that a person can't live at a $40,000 rate on a $5,000 income. It is impossible to bore an auger hole with a gimlet. The beginning of Alvord's downfall seems to date back to his marriage to a sprightly and attractive girl beneath him in the social scale, to whom he is devotedly attached. People who are not satisfied with their positions in society, almost invariably think that they will be elevated by a lavish expenditure of money. Such was the opinion of Mrs. Alvord. Her husband endeavored to gratify her every foolish whim and in order to do so was compelled to purloin from those who trusted him, with the result that a felon's cell awaits him, and she sinks to a lower social scale than that from which she started.

COL. T. C. CAMPBELL, attorney for the prosecution in the trials of Powers, Howard and Youtsey addressed a five-column letter to Mayor R. W. Nelson, of Newport, through the columns of the Lexington Morning Democrat, in which he answers charges made by Nelson in his speech defending Youtsey. While answering these charges Col. Campbell makes some bitter counter charges against Nelson and pours hot shot into him from beginning to end. Some have construed it as a challenge to the mayor, but that gentleman does not and makes light of the affair by a sarcastic reply of a few lines in which he calls the colonel a "castigated jade."

A FIERCE war is raging between card writers in the New York papers over the selection of Gen. Robert E. Lee for a place in the Hall of Fame. Those who were "invisible in war, but invincible in peace," insist that it is rank treason, while a very respectable number maintain that it is an excellent selection. Lee's fame needed no bolstering by the Hall of Fame and his selection is a matter of indifference to those who honor his memory. Lord Wolseley said long ago that he never stood in the presence of but two really great men and that one of them was Robert E. Lee. His memory will be cherished long after the Hall of Fame is forgotten.

It is announced that McKinley will remain in Canton until after the election and the day after the election it will be announced that he will return to Canton for good after March 4th.

POLITICAL.

Chairman Combs says that Yerkes' majority will be 17,000; another case of whistling to keep his spirits up.

John W. Yerkes, sponsor for Taylor and other assassins, will speak in Lexington Nov. 5.—Morning Democrat.

"Louisville will go democratic" is the positive announcement made by the local democratic executive committee. There were 1,000 horsemen in the democratic parade at Frankfort. John W. Keller and Zack Phelps were the orators.

Five thousand people turned out to hear democratic orators at Harrodsburg Saturday.

Capt. W. W. Hinds, a life-long republican of Henderson, has come out for Beckham. He says he can't indorse assassination.

In his Thanksgiving proclamation President McKinley gives Providence and not the republican party credit for the good crops this year.

John B. Thompson, of Harrodsburg, thinks that the passage of the new election law has made thousands of votes for the democratic party.

Mr. Yerkes spoke at Richmond to a crowd estimated at 3,000. A feature of the meeting was a parade of 758 men on horseback, 461 of whom were Negroes.

Col. Bennett H. Young and ex-Gov. Bradley have made up their differences and both agree to withdraw the unpleasant remarks they have made concerning each other. Col. Tom Landrum and Stuart R. Young brought about the reconciliation.

Berry Howard was a conspicuous figure in the parade at Pineville yesterday. Ex-Gov. Bradley was the speaker of the occasion.

If Yerkes can give you a better reason for endorsing assassination than you have for being a law abiding citizen, vote for him—Morehead Mountaineer.

Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the democratic National committee, charges that mail addressed to democratic headquarters is being systematically pilaged.

A letter from Gen. Joe Wheeler convicts Roosevelt of another misrepresentation, not to use a harsher term. The Rough Rider has been claiming that the gallant ex-Confederate was one of his supporters, but the letter puts the statement to sleep. The general will not only support the democratic nominees, but has tendered his services on the stump for them.

The republicans are in consternation over the effect of the very frank indorsement of trusts made by Senator N. B. Scott at the Roosevelt dinner in New York. It has become known that as soon as the statement was made those present at the dinner realized that it was another case of Burchard and made strenuous efforts to suppress publication of the incident, even threatening the representative of a news association who was present.

Nearly 2,000 horsemen were in the parade at the democratic rally at Somerset Saturday. A feature of the parade was 17 beautiful young women dressed in white, with one dressed in yellow, "16 to 1," drawn by four black horses. A large number of democrats who were for McKinley in 1896, and several republicans who will vote for Bryan and Beckham, took part in the day's program. Hon. J. C. Beckham, of Shelby, was the principal speaker.

Hon. J. Boyle Stone, of Casey, talked to a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter as follows: "The democratic cause could not look brighter than it does. In our section of the State, for in our county there is not a single gold democrat who has not declared his intention to vote for Bryan, and all of the anti-Goebel vote but one are for Beckham, and I know personally of 15 republicans in the county who are going to vote the democratic ticket. The county is full of democratic clubs, while the republicans have not made a move. These conditions apply to our neighboring counties of Russell and Wayne, and there has been a decided gain throughout our county."
